What Is Foley's Kidney Cure?

Answer: It is made from prescription of a leading Chicago physician, and one of the most eminent in the country. The ingredients are the purest that money can buy, and are scientifically combined to get their utmost value. DeSoto Drug Co.

The friends of Hon. Wilkinson Call will be glad to know that he is connected with a large concern which may put him beyond the reach of want in his old age.

A Lesson In Health.

Healthy kidneys filter the impurities from the blood, and unless you do this good health is impossible. Foley's Kidney Cure makes sound kidneys and will positively cure all forms of kidney and bladder disease. It strengthens the whole system. DeSoto Drug Co.

General Funston will not attend that Boston banquet, and the anti-imperialists can now come out from under their houses.

A Revelation.

If you will make inquiry it will be a revelation to you how many succumb to kidney or bladder trouble in one form or another. If the patient is not beyond medical aid, Foley's Kidney Cure will cure. It never disappoints. DeSoto Drug Co.

Grover Cleveland writes beautifully about how to kill ducks, but it is the best trust that needs killing at this present writing.

Foley's Honey and Tar contains no opiates and can be safely given to children. DeSoto Drug Co.

General Miles seems to have finally gotten his muzzle properly adjusted. It hasn't leaked now for a fortnight.

Traveling Is Dangerous.

Constant motion jars the kidneys which are kept in place in the body by delicate attachments. This is the reason that travelers, tramps, street car men, teamsters and who drive very much suffer from kidney disease in some form. Foley's Kidney Cure strengthens the kidneys and cures all forms of kidney and bladder disease. Geo. H. Hansen, locomotive engineer, Lima, O., writes, "Constant vibration of the engine caused me a great deal of trouble with my kidneys, and I got no relief until I used Foley's Kidney Cure. DeSoto Drug Co."

If the Massachusetts shoe makers are so anxious for free hides they should turn in and take them off their republican congressmen this fall.

Foley's Honey and Tar is peculiarly adapted for asthma, bronchitis and hoarseness. DeSoto Drug Co.

Long-winded individuals are usually short when it comes to paying their debts.

Will Cure Consumption.

A. A. Herren, Finch, Ark., writes, "Foley's Honey and Tar is the best preparation for coughs, colds and lung trouble. I know that it has cured consumption in the first stages." DeSoto Drug Co.

It is rather significant that Mark Hammet gets more applause in republican conventions than any other of the mentioned.

You never heard of any one using Foley's Honey and Tar and not being cured. DeSoto Drug Co.

Holds Up a Congressman

"At the end of the campaign," writes Champ Clark, Missouri's brilliant congressman, "from overwork, nervous tension, loss of sleep and constant speaking I had about utterly collapsed. It seemed that all the organs in my body were out of order, but three bottles of Electric Bitters made me all right. It's the best all around medicine ever sold over a druggist's counter." Overworked, run-down men feel weak, sickly women gain splendid health and vitality from Electric Bitters. Try them. Only 50c. Guaranteed by All Druggists.

Noah played a great game. He drew pairs and got a full house.

Stand Like a Stone Wall

Between your children and the tortures of itching and burning eczema, scaldheads or other skin diseases—How? Why, by using Bucklen's Arnica Salve, Earth's greatest healer. Quickest cure for Ulcers, Fever Sores, Salt Rheum, Cuts, Burns and Bruises. Infallible for Piles. 25c at all druggists.

Matrimonially speaking, the baseball catcher isn't always a catch.

Reveals a Great Secret.

It is often asked how such startling cures, that puzzle the best physicians, are effected by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Here's the secret. It cuts out the phlegm and germ-infected mucus, and lets the life giving oxygen enrich and vitalize the blood. It heals the inflamed, cough-worm throat and lungs. Hard colds and stubborn coughs soon yield to Dr. King's New Discovery, the most infallible remedy for all Throat and Lung diseases. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at all Druggists.

Let foreign cattle in and the trusts can have all their beef to themselves.

Won't Follow Advice After Paying For It.

In a recent article a prominent physician says, "It is next to impossible for the physician to get his patients to carry out any prescribed course of hygiene or diet to the smallest extent; he has but one resort left, namely, the drug treatment." When medicines are used for chronic constipation, the most mild and gentle obtainable, such as Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, should be employed. Their use is not followed by constipation as they leave the bowels in a natural and healthy condition. For sale by Gulf Pharmacy and DeSoto Drug Co.

Wise is the candidate who can convince the voters that the office is seeking him.

Cures When Doctors Fail.

Mrs. Frank Chasson, Patterson, La., writes June 8th, 1901: "I had malaria fever in very bad form, was under treatment by doctors, but as soon as I stopped taking their medicine the fever would return. I used a sample bottle of Herbine, and it helped me. Then bought two bottles, which completely cured me. I feel grateful to you for furnishing such a splendid medicine, and can honestly recommend it to those suffering from malaria, as it will surely cure them." Herbine, 50c bottle at DeSoto Drug Co.

A Chicago skirt dancer says she gets only $20 per week and that is why she is kicking.

For Those Who Live on Farms.

Dr. Bergin, Pans, Ill., writes: "I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment; always recommend it to my friends, as I am confident there is no better made. It is a dandy for burns." Those who live on farms are especially liable to many accidental cuts, burns and bruises, which heal rapidly when Ballard's Snow Liniment is applied. It should always be kept in the house for cases of emergency. 25c, 50c, at DeSoto Drug Co.

Originally usually consists of repeating bright remarks to people who never heard them before.

World Wide Reputation.

While Cream Vermifuge has achieved a world wide reputation as being the best of all worm destroyers, and for its tonic influence on weak and unthrifty children, as it neutralizes the acidity or sourness of the stomach, improves their digestion and assimilation of food, strengthens their nervous system and restores them to the health, vigor and elasticity of spirits natural to childhood. 25c, at DeSoto Drug Co.

Joe Bullock fined a man convicted of running a blind tiger in Levy county $1000 or one year in jail.

Soring Alliments.

There is an aching and tired feeling; the liver, bowels and kidneys become sluggish and inactive; the digestion impaired, with little or no appetite, no ambition for anything, and a feeling that the whole body and mind needs toning up. The trouble is, that during winter, there has been an accumulation of waste matter in the system. Herbine will remove it, secure to the secretions a slight exit, and be its tonic effect fully restore the wasted tissues and give strength in place of weakness. 50c at DeSoto Drug Co.

A Venezuelan general has been killed in battle. Doubtless his running gear was out of fix.

Whooping Cough.

A woman who has had experience with this disease, tells how to prevent any dangerous consequences from it. She says: Our three children took whooping cough last summer, our baby being only three months old, and owing to our giving them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, they lost none of their plumpness and came out in much better health than other children whose parents did not use this remedy. Our oldest little girl would call lustily for cough syrup between whoops. JESSIE PERRY HALL, Springfield, Ala. This remedy is for sale by Gulf Pharmacy and DeSoto Drug Co.

G. SHARPE AND A FLAT

By DOUGLAS Z. DOTY
Copyright, 1901.
By the S. S. McClure Company

Gregory Sharpe, president of the Consolidated Gas company, sat in his private office dictating letters to his stenographer.

Outside a long line of people waited their turn to pay their gas bills at a small window in the wire partition, for it was the first of the month.

To the young clerk who managed to dress right smartly on ten or twelve dollars a week, Sharpe was a constant source of wonderment. Careless, not to say unkempt, at times in his attire, from early to late he tottered at his office, and his employees thought what a great pity it was that this man, who knew so little how to enjoy life, should be the one to possess Aladdin's lamp.

As a young chap—he was now about thirty-eight or forty—he had had his unfortunate love affair. Then after a few black weeks he had set his teeth and thrown himself head and soul into his business.

"That's all, Miss Hagen," said Sharpe as, with hands in his trousers pockets, he paced the floor of his sanctum. The sunlight streaming in through a tall window beyond the cashier bothered him every time he made the turn of his office. He might have called to a dozen fellows to pull up the shade, but it was like the man to go and attend to it himself. It was also characteristic that he should open the front door for a slip of a woman with a big bundle in her arm.

"Thank you!" said a sweet, low voice. "Thank you!" said a pair of big violet eyes looking up into his face.

"Pretty little thing," was Gregory's passing thought.

The girl readjusted the bundle and in doing so dropped a familiar green slip. Gregory knew by heart the printed matter on it. The statement was terse, businesslike and rather grim.

"If the enclosed bill is not paid by the 1st, we shall be obliged to cut off your gas supply on that date."

The girl thanked him again as he placed it upon her, a wave of scarlet slowly spreading over her face.

"Do they do that—they can get an extension of time about paying if you promise to pay in a week?" she asked nervously.

"Well," said the president, "we have found that an extension of time generally makes matters worse. Let's see your bill. I'll see the cashier about this," he muttered and strode off.

The girl's eyes followed him. He looked less prosperous than many of the well known young fellows on high stools behind the wire netting. Perhaps he had something to do with the mechanical department. She was a little surprised to note with what alertly the haughty looking cashier held his place at the window and the long line of waiting people. Gregory seemed to do all the talking, the cashier simply nodding at frequent intervals.

The girl's heart throbbed hopefully. She had always regarded that cashier as a most approachable individual. In a moment Gregory was back.

"You may have another fortnight in which to meet this bill," he announced kindly.

"Oh, thank you!" cried the girl joyfully. "It was so good of you to take the trouble. And the cashier—please tell him how grateful I am for doing as you asked."

"I will," said Gregory heartily, and his mouth twitched unpleasantly as he bowed her out the door.

"Send Fiedler to me," he said on reaching his room. The cashier appeared on the instant.

"Yes, sir."

"That young lady I just spoke to about Miss—"

"Miss Josephine Locke, sir."

"Yes, well, she wished me to thank you for being so kind as to grant her two weeks' extension of time."

Gregory shook with laughter, and Fiedler grinned appreciatively.

Two weeks later Fiedler appeared before his chief.

"About that case you interested yourself in some time ago, sir, Locke was the name. Time was up yesterday, and the bill isn't paid. I'm afraid it's the same old story. That soft kind, with big eyes and whining voice, are most generally fakes."

Gregory pondered.

"I was fooled once before. Perhaps I am again. Oh, these women!" Then aloud: "Leave the papers with me, Fiedler. I'm just curious enough to order a special inquiry. If we've been fooled, never again will I show any leniency."

It was half past five before he was ready to leave the office. He looked rather gruffly at Fiedler plugging his topcoat. Gregory meant to conduct that investigation in person.

By the time he had reached the dingy looking flat-house and had climbed four flights of dark stairs Sharpe repeated of his bargain. Gropping along a narrow hallway, he came to a card stuck over a push button and inscribed "Mrs. L. T. Locke."

It was Miss Violet Eyes herself who opened the door. She recognized the caller in an instant.

"Oh, it's you!" she faltered, nervously twisting the knob of the half open door. "You've come to cut off the gas, I suppose. And she slowly made way for him to step in."

A little, white haired lady appeared.

"Won't you step into the parlor?" she said.

Everything was so neat and the grate fire so cheery that at first Gregory did not realize how barren and poverty stricken the place was. The little old lady piloted him skillfully to the only easy chair in the room, which faced the little coal fire.

The best chair and the best outlook the room afforded.

A sweet old gentleman, thought Gregory, who has learned to keep up appearances under conditions that would have swamped most housewives with less pride and fewer resources.

"I suppose," murmured the old lady, smoothing out her black silk apron—"I suppose one should not indulge in the luxury of a grate fire with the gas bill unpaid, but," with a deprecatory gesture, "it has been very cold, and one loses one's courage so easily when one can't keep warm."

It was said quietly, with gentle dignity, but the pathos of it!

"Madam," said Gregory in a voice that shook a little, "you are quite right. Pray do not think I am coddling you."

"You see," went on the lady, "my son has gone out west. He had such a splendid chance! He needed a little money to get started. I let him have it. He was to pay it back very soon. We've been expecting him to write for us every day for, oh, a long, long time—I must forget how long! One loses track of the days somehow when one is waiting and one doesn't hear. But we heard today. He is coming home as soon as I can send him the fare."

A door banged. There was the rustle of skirts, and the fragrant odor of steaming tea reached Gregory's nostrils.

Then Josephine appeared with a tray of dishes, which she placed by her mother. Her face was flushed from standing over a fire.

"There, mother," she said, with a strange mixture of tears and defiance. "I guess I've used another cubic foot of gas, but your supper is as hot as the gas range could make it. If you'll stop this way, sir, I'll show you where the meter is."

"You needn't mind," said Gregory slowly. "I only called to see when it would be convenient."

He could not finish the sentence. There was something else to do. The girl, turning ghostly white, fell in a huddled heap at his feet.

She came back to life while her mother was searching for the brandy flask. She looked into his face anxiously.

"It's nothing—nothing—except that I am—hungry. But you mustn't know!" She sank back, and the violet eyes were again hidden from Gregory's view.

"Gregory," she murmured as he bent over to fasten her gloves, for they were on their wedding journey, "how could you marry a girl who deliberately lied to you? I know I couldn't pay that bill when the fortnight was up."

"My dear girl," he murmured irrelevantly, "will you stand by me through thick and thin, as you did by me through thin and thin?"

But for reasons best known to Gregory Sharpe, president of the American Consolidated Gas company, his wife was unable to make reply.

Impressing the Hotel.

There is a dignified man of more than average intelligence whose method of impressing himself upon the attention and commanding the respect of hotel landlords and unbending clerks in England, Europe and the United States is not widely known. Before setting out to take a course of baths at the Grand Hotel Pupp, Carlbad, he has his secretary to address him in typewritten scores of envelopes gathered here and there among his business acquaintances, all bearing the firm imprint, a hundred or so to be mailed on each steamer. Being a member of seventeen clubs, social and commercial, he leaves upon them for stationery also, having enough envelopes addressed to himself to attract attention. When they arrive in batches of ten or a dozen at the Pupp, the porter neatly merrily of imitation.
